

VIEWING ROOM 12: 01-29 AUGUST, 2026

EILEEN COXON

Eileen Coxon's subject matter is her 'experience' of nature. Walking provides her with material in the form of photos, drawings, collected leaves, twigs etc., but most of all, memory. Back in the studio, source material is set aside and the process of painting takes Suffolk resident Eileen Coxon was born and grew up in an area of rural Hampshire famed for its natural beauty. This instilled a life-long love of nature. She has always drawn and painted and trained at Norwich School of Art followed by ten years in Adult Education.

She is not seeking to romanticise the landscape and includes details found in field margins and verges as well as the intensively farmed landscape and industrial style farm buildings. When walking Eileen frequently looks up from the detail of the near to a distant horizon across fields marked only by the traces of cultivation and occasionally, of previous use. Frequently this translates to a play with perspective which reflects her subjective experience.

DANNY SEELEY

Danny Seeley

Based in the small village of Tilney St Lawrence, just outside of Kings Lynn Danny is passionate about local produce, provenance and the ancient craft of willow basketry. For Contemporary and Country's Viewing Room he has woven Buff Noir into an exclusive range of baskets and other items for sale from Woolmarket House.

Buff Noir is willow that has been steamed and stripped of its bark. This makes Buff Noir a great choice for Danny when adding strips of colour to his work.

"I strive for self-sufficiency in almost all aspects of my day-to-day life, and willow has become an invaluable ally on this journey".
